

The Darling Arnst Organic Sauvignon Blanc 2019

Region

Marlborough is by far New Zealand's largest grape growing region with more than two-thirds of all plantings. First planted in 1873 it is known in the region by the Maori name, Kei puta te Wairau meaning 'the place with the hole in the cloud' due to its very high 2,410 sunshine hours a year. High sunshine and a dry growing season help to create the famous intense flavours. Generally, plantings are in two main valleys of Wairau and Awatere. Much of the land is alluvial river basin with well-drained soils that provide an ideal for Sauvignon Blanc and clay slopes better suited Pinot Noir and Pinot Gris.

Producer

Chris Darling and Bart Arnst teamed up in 2007 (with 50 years experience in winemaking) to create high-quality, organic wines under their own label. Using only certified organic grapes from 3 different vineyards, they strive to produce complex and textural wines that are perfect for any occasion. Their commitment to the environment is reflected in their choice to use organic grapes, which not only helps to limit the impact on the environment, but also results in wines of exceptional quality and traceability.

Tasting Notes

Grapes sourced from a single organic vineyard in the Wairau Valley of Marlborough, pressed and then fermented in barrel for a lovely character and complexity. The juice is kept on the lees for a great intensity and full mouthfeel and left unfinned and unfiltered when bottled for a wonderful expression of the grape. The wine shows its abundance of fruit on the nose along with some oak notes for complexity. The wine has a wonderful weight and texture with power yet elegance as a fine example of Sauvignon Blanc made with well-balanced use of oak.
