Ridge Vineyards `Geyserville` Zinfandel Organic 2021

Region

Sonoma County runs parallel to Napa on the Pacific eastern side, and the warmer northern end works well for Bordeaux varieties and Zinfandel with the cool southern end can make elegant Pinot Noir and crisp aromatic Sauvignon Blanc. Alexander Valley Vineyards is located on Highway 128 in northern Sonoma County, just 75 miles north of San Francisco. In 1962, it was mostly prune orchards and pastures when Maggie and Harry Wetzel purchased a large portion of a homestead built by Cyrus Alexander, the valley`s nineteenth century namesake. Hank Wetzel, oldest son of Maggie and Harry, produced the vineyard`s first wine in 1975. Acclaimed for crisp Chardonnay and luscious Cabernet Sauvignon, Alexander Valley Vineyards brought recognition to the appellation and became a leading winery in Sonoma County.

Producer

The Ridge Vineyards began in 1885 when Dr Perrone bought 180 acres near the top of Monte Bello Ridge. He terraced the slopes and planted vineyards, as well as constructing the winery out of native limestone.Ridge Vineyards is one of the most prestigeous wineries in California and is famous for the 1976 judgement of Paris where a panel of European experts judged the Ridge Monte Bello to be superior to some of Bordeaux`s finest wines. Under the long-standing influence of winemaker Paul Draper, Ridge pioneered a philosophy of minimal-intervention winemaking, championing traditional techniques, native yeast fermentation and transparency in production. Today, Ridge farms vineyards across the Santa Cruz Mountains and Sonoma County, with a strong commitment to organic viticulture and sustainable practices. Its wines are celebrated for their balance, complexity and distinctive expression of California’s diverse terroirs.

Tasting Notes

Ridge Geyserville is one of California’s most iconic Zinfandel-based wines, produced from historic vineyards in Sonoma County, first produced in 1966. Geyserville is sourced from old vines, some dating back to the 19th century, planted on gravelly soils along the Russian River. Predominantly Zinfandel, the blend typically includes Carignane, Petite Sirah and a small proportion of Alicante Bouschet. Following Ridge’s philosophy of minimal-intervention winemaking, the grapes are fermented using native yeasts and aged in American oak barrels. The resulting wine is rich and beautifully balanced, displaying ripe blackberry, raspberry and dark cherry flavours, complemented by notes of sweet spice, pepper and earthy complexity, with elegant tannins and a long, persistent finish.
